Who: David Lantz was the State Director of the Indiana Christian Coalition from 1992 to 1995, and has served as a political consultant to several political campaigns for statewide office. Today, Mr. Lantz is an Adjunct Professor of Business Management and Economics for the University of Phoenix, and Ivy Tech of Indiana. He was named the 2005 Faculty of the Year by the first graduating class of the Indianapolis Campus of the University of Phoenix.

Why Think Like Jesus/Lead Like Moses?

Transparent, challenging, courageous and personally engaging, this book provides an inside look into the “head and heart” of the leader, Moses. As someone just like yourself who became a grass roots leader with the Christian Coalition in the 1990s, Lantz not only boldly shares his own learning mistakes in the crucible of leadership refinement, but also deftly illustrates key leadership principles via the life of Moses and modern film scenes. This book is not just another leadership book; it is a call to get humble and to turn the world up-side down as we learn to think like Jesus and lead like Moses.

The Honorable Mike Pence, Congressman, 6th District, Indiana:

“Like so many ordinary people called to do extraordinary things, I observed David Lantz emerge from the grassroots to lead the Indiana Christian Coalition during my talk radio days in Indianapolis. His book serves as a road map for so many Americans who today are answering the call to rise up to become the “Gray Champions” of their local communities.”

Ten Principles from Think Like Jesus, Lead Like Moses:

Principle 1: Gain courage by trusting the Lord

Principle 2: Understand God's plan for your life, and be committed to its execution.

Principle 3: Attract lieutenants in whom you can place your trust, and then trust them to accomplish the vision.

Principle 4: Champion your followers – even at your own expense.

Principle 5: Share authority through delegation in order to ensure the success of the people you lead.

Principle 6: Affirm your followers' self-worth and remind them that God cherishes them.

Principle 7: Resist the desire to justify yourself, allowing God the opportunity to defend you.

Principle 8: Invite the Holy Spirit to flow through you, so that He might choose and disciple others with a heart for the vision God has given you.

Principle 9: Acknowledge the temptation to let success go to your head – and ask your advisors to help hold you accountable.

Principle 10: Live a life of genuineness, demonstrating a true sense of empathy and understanding for your followers, inspiring them to act courageously as they pursue a vision to enter the "Promised Land".
