Mr. Lantz is an Adjunct Professor of Business Management and Economics for the University of Phoenix, and Ivy Tech of Indiana, and conducts leadership seminars for the American Family Association of Indiana.

The Honorable Mike Pence, Congressman, 6th District, Indiana:

“Like so many ordinary people called to do extraordinary things, I observed David Lantz emerge from the grassroots to lead the Indiana Christian Coalition during my talk radio days in Indianapolis. His book serves as a road map for so many Americans who today are answering the call to rise up to become the “Gray Champions” of their local communities.”

Pastor Ed Fritz, Goshen First United Methodist Church:

“It has been my pleasure to work with David Lantz. In his book and seminar, Think like Jesus, lead like Moses, David clearly communicates positive leadership skills that allows those who are in the process of discipleship to best understand Godly techniques for effective ministry. You will be inspired and refreshed as you take this study with David.”

Hosea Baxter, Director of Reconciliation and Urban Ministry, Crossroads Bible College:

“Think like Jesus Lead like Moses challenges us to look to two of the world’s most successful leaders to see how they guide people in the wilderness. David Lantz provides us with applicable insights into well-known leadership styles by constructing a bridge between commonsense business methods and profound biblical insights. For this reason, Crossroads Bible College is excited about utilizing this book in our new urban leadership degree. Think Like Jesus, Lead Like Moses has become one of the required textbooks in our course Leadership and Strategic Planning.
